EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

The application has been amended as follows: on page 7 of the specification, the first sentence has been deleted and this paragraph has been added. -

- 5.14 Kg of tomatoes are cut and homogenized in a blender, then centrifuged at 3000 r for 15', to separate serum from the insoluble fraction (1.315 kg), which is extracted 4 times with 2.65 L each of ethyl acetate (10.6 L of solvent totally), each extraction during 2 hours, under stirring, at a temperature of 60° C and shielding from light.

The extracts are combined and concentrated to dryness under reduced pressure. The resulting tomato whole extract (6.07 g) has HPLC lycopene content of 3.5%, reducing sugars content (expressed as glucose) of 8.74%, phospholipids content of 35.57% and mono-di-glycerides content of 12.44%. –

REMARKS

The above paragraph was taken from Applicants Pct/EPO/02749 verbatim, as the last page of the US filed specification, was not printed.

Art Unit: 1794

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the primary reference Ausich et al. (5,858,700) makes a composition which contains lycopene containing oleoresin which is 90% made from the extraction of tomato paste (col. 12, lines 34-60. Applicant's process makes a less concentrated tomato extract which has only 5-20 % lycopene as in claim 1, and particular amounts of reducing sugars, phospholipids, and mono-di-glycerides, which would not be found in a composition which is 90% pure made by the process of Ausich et al. since the amounts of ingredients as in Applicant's claim 5 would exclude a product which has 90% purity.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Any inquiry concerning this communication should be directed to Helen F. Pratt at telephone number 571-272-1404.
